

Promoting your child's choice and voice

Nurture your child's decision making and independence

It's never too early to begin nurturing your child's decision-making skills, empowering them to make choices and guiding them to become more independent and thrive in the future.

A child's "voice" encompasses more than their physical one; it includes their thoughts, feelings, and preferences. Everyone has the potential to become strong, confident, and capable, and encouraging your child's voice in decision-making supports this growth

During this interactive session you will:

- Learn about a practical model to develop your child's voice.
- Discuss the choices you currently offer your child.
- Take away practical strategies and resources to encourage your young child's voice and choice, helping them build confidence and independence.
