

Communication passport

Let's explore how to share information about your child with their school

Starting school is an exciting milestone—it marks the beginning of your child's formal education journey.

Communication Passports are a practical way to introduce children positively and as individuals when they cannot speak for themselves.

This session will assist you in creating a communication passport to share information about your child with others in various settings (schools, OOSH, sleepovers, school camps, etc....)

Come along to explore:

- Present your child positively as an individual in their school community
- Communicate information about your child's needs for others in an accessible way
- Share your child's views and preferences with others.

Everyone will walk away with a draft of a communication passport for their child.
